The Raymond Coalition For Youth and Unite Us, the nation's leading technology company connecting health and social care services, are partnering to expand the coordinated care network known as Unite Us in New Hampshire, and address the unmet needs of people and families throughout the state.

Unite Us helps connect people to much-needed resources and services such as assistance with mental and behavioral health services, youth and family resources, and financial assistance. The New Hampshire network launched in December of 2020, and quickly grew to over 165 network partners who use the Unite Us Platform to send and receive secure electronic referrals, and track the outcomes of their clients' overall health journey.

For over twenty years, the Raymond Coalition For Youth has been dedicated to increasing community partnerships to help connect people to resources and support for better health outcomes.

"We know it can be a challenge for people who are looking for mental health, or substance misuse support services in NH, not to mention housing and food insecurity. We are looking forward to working with Unite Us and their simplified process to get support to those who need it," said Celeste Clark, Executive Director of Raymond Coalition for Youth.

Together, the Raymond Coalition For Youth and Unite Us will be able to securely connect people in need with community-based resources that can be difficult to navigate. The network provides a central point of contact where health care providers, social service organizations, and individuals can securely access and refer people to needed services while monitoring progress and measuring outcomes.

"Our partnership with The Raymond Coalition For Youth aligns with our goal to connect residents of New Hampshire with much-needed resources and services they need, regardless of circumstance," said Nadine Lamontagne, Community Engagement Manager, Unite Us. "Our team works collaboratively to support and train network partners that coordinate care no matter where in the state people live. Our collective goal is to increase equitable access to care and services across the state," she added.
